Live Lot #1

Eustis Jersey Cow sculpture #8

Special donation from the daughter of Don & Zoe Middleton is #8 of 200.

The Eustis model was created and hand-painted by Francis Eustis, who was honored as a Pioneer of National Dairy Shrine in 2012. In immaculate condition, this sculpture was one of 200 commissioned in 1983 by the American Jersey Cattle Club and sold at the National Heifer Sale in 1984.

Don and Zoe farmed in Idaho and had a nationally recognized herd in the 1980s.

The Middletons had eight children and gifted each of them with a model cow. With the passing of her parents, Susan wanted to give back to a foundation they supported for many years.

Donated by Susan Schuler, ID

Crown Devon Series: Tea Cup and Matching Plate

Crown Devon pottery has become quite a collector's dream. The company began in 1870 with Simon Fielding. Fieldings used the trade name "Crown Devon", and since the early 1930's the Crown Devon mark - a crown over the words Crown Devon - has become emblematic of the company, which sometimes appears without the Fielding name. The Jersey series is quite an item with collectors around the world.

What influenced him most artistically was his love for nature and the outdoors. Sometimes studying the smallest details hidden in the grass or the grains of wood in an old barn would expand his view of creation leading him to apply what he saw to paper and canvas.
