Poppy had a CIDR inserted on 9/25 to keep her from being in heat at time of the sale https://www.beefmagazine.com/mag/beef\_understanding\_cidr and is ready to breed naturally or via AI immediately upon purchase or her next cycle. Her dam Ceadghin is on track to be an Impact dam with her next birth and her dam is the HWF herd boss Alysa is already an Impact dam and on track to be an Elite Impact dam. Poppy (named for the red poppies in Flanders' Fields of France) is as sweet as her name suggests, she is taking to the halter well even though she was started on it just 2 weeks ago, will eat range cubes from your hand endlessly and loves being brushed.
